REVOLT IN RUSSIA.

Terrible Particulars of the Peasantry Outbreak.

THE CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE.

Stringent Enforcement of the Conscription and Cruelties of Petty Officials. The First Detachment of Troops Sent Against Them Defeated—Other Foreign News.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—A dispatch from V[illegible] the Russian authorities are [illegible] and [illegible] are ma[illegible] to suppress the [illegible] connected with the outbreak of the peasantry in Southern Russia. The revolt is said to have originated in the stringent enforcement of the conscription, from which the rich [illegible] ways to secure exemption, and in the cruel exercise [illegible] by the petty officials with the view of breaking the spirit of the people.

The [illegible] villages, men held in [illegible] neighbors have been brutally [illegible] small alleged offenses, a [illegible] has been used on the [illegible]. The outbreak originated near Zmiev, about fifty miles from Kharkov, being prompted by some act of judicial cruelty not fully known. The peasants not having firearms, seized any weapons at command, drove the magistrates from the place and began a campaign of murder and arson against the officials and the aristocracy.

The first detachment of troops sent against them was defeated and forced to retire and General [illegible]miroff ordered six regiments of infantry and two of cavalry to the scene. They at last accounts had not yet encountered the peasants, said to be swollen to vast numbers and very resolute, though badly armed.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 30.—It is stated by The Journal de St. Petersbourg that in the dispute between the Greek patriarch and the porte, the latter in [illegible] the common law disregards [illegible] that the provisions of the [illegible] code are not applicable to a Christian community. The Russian government, the journal says, having at heart the interests of the Greek orthodox church, confidently hopes that the steps taken by the Turkish government will result in speedily ending the present [illegible] situation. The paper further says that the patriarch, relying on [illegible] to reopen the churches which should never have been closed.

Trying to Prevent Emigration.

S[illegible], Oct. 30.—The Russian government has redoubled the [illegible] guards in the Prussian frontier in a determined effort to prevent [illegible] emigrants from leaving the country. The refugees who succeed in [illegible] stories of cruelty on the part of the guards difficult to credit, though many of them bear the marks of the knout and the bludgeon, and plainly suffer from the effects of fatigue and exposure.

The Greeks Not Satisfied.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Vienna advices state that the downfall of the Tricoupis ministry in Greece has aroused alarm at [illegible] received with anxiety in Vienna and Berlin, as showing that the Greeks are not satisfied with the status quo and may resort to violent measures to regain lost ascendency in the Turkish provinces.

Boycotted Cattle.

C[illegible], Oct. 30.—The sailors on the coasting steamer Finnlaird, now in this port, [illegible] refused to work if boycotted cattle, which the steamship company had contracted to carry, were taken on board. The company forwarded the cattle to their destination by train, paying the costs of such transportation.

Spanish Minister to Washington.

MADRID, Oct. 30.—Senor Miguel Juarez Guanes, now Spanish consul general in New York, has been appointed Spanish minister to the United States in place of Senor Muruaga, resigned, who has represented Spain in Washington since 1886.

Murdered By Moonlighters.

DUBLIN, Oct. 30.—A girl named Flanagan and her mother have been murdered by moonlighters in County Clare.

BREWING CONTRACTS VIOLATED.

Action Brought in the United States Court for Redress.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—John P. Grant, of Michigan, brought an action yesterday in the United States circuit court against [illegible] Scott, of New York, touching a [illegible] of two brewing contracts [illegible] which breweries the defendant [illegible] cause of action in this [illegible] complaint is against the Crescent Brewing company, carrying on business in Indiana, under the laws of which state it was reorganized, and the [illegible] at the Union Brewing company [illegible].

The plaintiff entered into various contracts with the companies mentioned agreeing to [illegible] stock for a valuable consideration. He claims that they violated the contracts, and in case of a [illegible] the Crescent company [illegible] $[illegible],000, and against the other for $[illegible].

Thomas C. Woolfolk Pays the Penalty of Committing Nine Murders.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 30.—Thomas C. Woolfolk was hanged yesterday at 2 o'clock for the murder of nine of his relatives. The execution took place in the outskirts of the town of Perry, Ga., and was witnessed by 7,000 or 8,000 people. On the gallows Woolfolk was cool and composed. After the ministers had prayed he himself prayed fervently, declaring his innocence in his invocation.

A written statement signed by Woolfolk was read, in which he gave it as his dying declaration that he was innocent of the crime for which he was being executed. At 1:31 the drop fell. The fall failed to break his neck and death resulted from strangulation, his pulse continuing to beat for eleven minutes after the fall. Twenty-five minutes later his body was cut down.

On Aug. 6, 1887, the bodies of Richard F. Woolfolk, a well-to-do white planter, his wife, their six children and his wife's sister were found lying in pools of blood in the Woolfolk residence. A short-handled ax, clotted with blood and hair, was found in the hallway of the house. The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Woolfolk and their infant lay on the same bed, and across the three corpses the body of the eldest daughter, a recent graduate of Wesleyan college, had been thrown. In other rooms the bodies of the other victims were found, and evidences of terrible struggles were to be seen.

Thomas C. Woolfolk, the only surviving member of the family, was arrested. He protested his innocence. When brought into the room where the bodies lay, he exhibited no grief. Woolfolk narrowly escaped lynching. The coroner's jury held Woolfolk accountable for the crime. Blood was found on his body and on his underclothing. The garments that he had worn on the day of the murder were found soaked in blood in an old well.

Woolfolk's trial lasted ten days. An attempt was made to show that the crime was committed by a negro desperado, but the jury found Woolfolk guilty after being out twenty minutes. Woolfolk was sentenced to be hanged on Feb. 10, 1888, but the supreme court of the state granted him a new trial. After many legal impediments had been overcome, Woolfolk was sentenced to be hanged Aug. 16, 1889, but legal technicalities were again interposed. On Oct 7, 1889, he was resentenced to be hanged Oct. 29, 1890.

Woolfolk's motive for the crime was a desire to obtain possession of his father's property, which he feared would go to his father's second wife and her children.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

An Insane Woman Found After Eighteen Months' Wandering.

MONTREAL, Oct. 30.—Last May, when the Longue Point insane asylum was burned, it was believed that over 100 persons were burned in it. Many patients escaped, but it was supposed they had all been recaptured. Among those in the asylum, but missing, was the wife of Amadee Gauthier, a farmer of St. Laurant. It was thought she had been burned.

Early yesterday morning Gauthier, accompanied by a neighbor, was coming into town with a wagon load of produce when they saw a woman lying beside the road. They roused her and asked her what she was doing there. She said she was hunting for the road to St. Laurent and had traveled for many weeks, mentioning places she had visited in Lower Quebec, 208 miles from Montreal.

Gauthier asked her to get into his wagon and he would drive her to a hotel farther on. As she stepped into the wagon he flashed his lantern into her face and dropped it with an exclamation almost of terror. The woman he had found was his own wife, who he supposed was dead, and whom he had not seen for over eighteen months. He drove her home at once, where it was found that she was half starved and nearly dead with cold.

She is incapable of telling a coherent story of her wanderings since her escape from the asylum fire; but her sufferings must have been terrible, as her feet and limbs are blistered and sore.

There is great excitement in the village over the affair, and the simple people look upon Mrs. Gauthier's return as a miracle. She will not be returned to asylum.

BURNED TO DEATH.

An Italian Saves His Family But Loses His Own Life.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 30.—At midnight a fire broke out in the livery stable of B. F. Dyer, on Grant street, and Antonio Gyatillo, an Italian, who, with his family of five children, occupied the upper story was burned to death. His wife and youngest girl, Mary, were also badly burned.

The fire started in the rear of the building and spread so rapidly that escape by the stairway was prevented. Gyatillo handed his wife and children out of the upper window into the arms of Officers Hanna and Richardson, who stood on the next roof below. Returning to save his goods, Gyatillo was caught in the stairway and suffocated. The money loss is heavy, but it is covered by insurance.

St. Louis Telegraphers Surrender.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30.—Trouble between the Western Union and Brotherhood of Telegraphers will be amicably disposed of to-morrow. The Western Union will probably succeed in doing what it wanted to do, and the local branch of the Brotherhood will be dissolved.

EVILS OF THE ARMY

Annual Report of Major General Miles.

THE DIVISION OF THE PACIFIC.

A Number of Recommendations Made to the Secretary of War, in Which He Asks That a Professional System of Advancement Be Adopted and That Desertion Be Dealt With—Other Washington Dispatches.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Maj. Gen. Miles, commanding the division of the Pacific, has submitted his annual report to the secretary of war. Gen. Miles recommends legislation for a better system of professional advancement for soldiers. Desertion, he says, is the principal evil of the army, and the various methods to diminish this crime, have not done so to any considerable extent, but the measures recently taken are a step in the right direction. He has, he says, for years recommended a change in the term of enlistment and also an improvement in the army ration.

The recommendations made in this connection in previous reports, he says, would, if adopted, be a great benefit to the service.

He also renews his recommendation of last year that the pay of first sergeants be made $50 per month, and the pay of all non-commissioned officers of regiments be increased 50 per cent.

Regarding the condition of affairs in the department of the division of the Pacific, he calls attention to the reports of Gens. Gibbon and Grierson, commanding the departments of the Columbia and Arizona.

The subject of coast defences is, in his opinion, the most important military question now before the people of this country, and there appears to be less information upon this subject and less interest taken in it than in any other National question. It is true, he continues, that we sometimes hear the question asked why the government does not not provide defenses for the coast and give protection to the great centers of wealth and commerce. When, in fact, the executive and legislative branches of the government are powerless to take such action unless sustained by an intelligent public sentiment.

The rapidly increasing wealth in the great cities of the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts only serve, he says, to court hostilities on the part of foreign powers. The belief that all international questions can be settled by arbitration, is good in theory but dangerous to rely upon. There seems to be a mistaken belief, the general says, that in case of threatened hostilities, ample time will always be given to prepare for war.

At the rate of the present progress we are making, he believes, it would take ten or fifteen years to put our coasts in proper condition for defense.

In conclusion he recommends that the sites required for coast defenses, and not already in the possession of the government, be secured without delay; that a gun foundry be established on the Pacific coast for the fabrication and assembling of heavy ordnance required for the army and navy serving on the coast, and in the waters of the Pacific, and that one-fourth of the appropriation required to place the coast in proper condition of security be made every year for the next four years.

Change of Chilian Government.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Information has been received here from Santiago, announcing the adjournment of the congress of Chili, which has just closed the most remarkable and momentous legislative session in the history of the country. The differences between the executive and the congress led to the passage of the new electoral law, and it will probably culminate in the passage of a new municipal law. The former will secure to the people a larger share of electoral freedom than they have hitherto enjoyed, and it will render possible the election of a congress and president reflecting, if not entirely, at all events nearly so, the will of the nation. The latter will confer upon the people a measure of self-government to which they have hitherto been strangers, and of which it is possible a large proportion of them will have but an imperfect idea until the new law is put in motion.

Stolen Notes to Be Redeemed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Acting treasurer Whelpley said yesterday that he is now prepared to redeem the National bank notes stolen from the office of the comptroller of the currency by a messenger in that office from 1864 to 1868, the last congress having provided $25,000 for that purpose. The notes are as follows: Tens and twenties of the Third National bank, of New York city, bank numbers of notes 9414 to 9425; fifties and one hundreds of the First National bank, of Jersey City, N. J., numbers 691 to 750; fifties and one hundreds of the National City bank of Lynn, Mass., number 121 to 1250. The appropriation is for the redemption of the notes described and no others.

Going Home to Vote.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—President Harrison will probably go home to vote. He has all along desired to do this, but business of an important nature has kept him here. He has cleared up his desk, and unless unforeseen circumstances arise to keep him here he will vote in Indiana on election day. Private secretary Halford will leave Washington for Indiana to-day, and Attorney General Miller and Marshal Ransdell leave to-morrow or next day. Numbers of department clerks and others residing in Washington, who vote in the states are leaving on every train. The number residing here who will vote in this congressional election is greater than for several years.

Frank Hatton Recovering.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Mr. Frank Hatton, editor of The Post, who has been quite seriously ill for several months, has [illegible] sufficiently to go out and yesterday [illegible] visit to the [illegible]. He will go south soon as an aid to his [illegible] of recovery [illegible] of a very serious character for some time.

NICKEL IS NOT SCARCE.

The [illegible] According to His Needs.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The Tribune's Washington special says: The secretary of the navy has decided not to make any immediate purchase of nickel to be used as an alloy in the manufacture of steel armor plates. When the armor trials at Annapolis demonstrated the victory of the nickel plate it was expected that nickel would advance in price.

So far as the information possessed by the department could form the base of judgment, some difficulty in procuring the metal was looked for. Congress was asked to make provision for the purchase of nickel without delay. The urgency of the matter was made more obvious by the efforts making by foreign armor and ordnance manufacturers to secure for their works the product of the Canadian mines, which was regarded as the most accessible.

It seems that no inquiry has ever been made into the exact quantity of nickel in the world. The disinterested authorities were somewhat abridged on the subject and the statements made by operators of nickel mines to the effect that the metal was scarce were invariably accepted. The department detailed officers to examine the known nickel mines of the world with a view to their productiveness.

Commodore Folger, chief naval officer, visited the mine at Sudbury, in Canada, and brought back some specimens. Lieut. Buckingham, was sent to the mines in Nevada and officers who are attached to United States legations abroad visited sources of nickel in Europe. The results of those examinations, as expressed in document reports and shown from specimens gathered at the various mines, show that the supply of nickel is not limited.

It now appears that there is smaller reason for immediate action. According to reports all the nickel required for the armor plates can be secured at prices proposed by the government. It was discovered early that resort to competitive bids would remove the liability of anything like imposition upon the department, and the subsequent inquiries into the quality, quantity and cost of nickel have demonstrated that nothing short of a combination among the nickel miners would force the price to a degree of extortion.

The statements to the effect that the attitude of the government regarding nickel has increased its price, do not apply to the navy department, whose purchase of nickel is limited only within the million dollar appropriation. While the Annapolis tests undeniably affected nickel ore, the material difference of cost will concern those nations which will adopt the nickel plate. Whatever difference there may be it does not seem to involve the United States. This government, according to one of its representatives, has developed a condition of affairs that leaves the purchasing price of nickel almost an optional matter.

Admiral Kimberly's report on the Annapolis test will be interesting mainly for the conclusion of the trial board. The technical results, the mathematical findings are calculated to be more matters of record; they were anticipated, in their general application and influence, by the department's requests for immediate provision for the acquirement of nickel.

The ordnance experts are waiting with something like impatience the comments from the English authorities on the results at Annapolis. In conversation with a reporter yesterday a naval officer said the test could not or would not be ignored by the experts of the British service.

While they would not be expected to accept the results for adoption without further and more substantial inquiry, there was no doubt that the nickel plate would replace the present compound plate on English ships of war. It was likely that a test similar to that at the improving grounds would be held by England, although the American test had all the impartiality and honesty derived from a desire to ascertain the exact merits of armor.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

Two Men Instantly Killed and Another Probably Fatally Injured.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 30.—Just before 10 o'clock last night an accident occurred on the Worcester division of the New York, Providence and Boston road, near the Branch avenue bridge at the northern part of the city, in which two men were almost instantly killed and another probably fatally injured. A freight train, inward bound, was either broken in two or was switching out upon the main tracks, when two cars came together with unusual force. One of these cars was loaded with steel bridge girders, and two of them were displaced and swiveled around just as a Lonsdale train bound north came along on the next track.

One girder first struck the side of the smoker, killing Daniel McDermott, of Pawtucket, who was sitting by the window playing cards, and wounding Fred. Barnet, baggagemaster at the Central Falls station, who sat behind him. The [illegible] beam rebounded and struck the next car, a day coach, where N. G. Peabody, [illegible] unknown, was killed. The train was stopped with one girder sticking through the car roof and another lying across it. The train was but lightly loaded or more would have been killed.

MEETING OF RAILROAD CLERKS.

A National Organization Formed in Cleveland—The Work Not Yet Finished—Gas Workers Strike at Martin's Ferry—Other State News.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 30.—Delegates representing the railroad clerks of Boston, Buffalo, Cairo, Ill., Detroit, Kansas City, St. Louis, Chicago, Cleveland and other important railroad centers met in this city yesterday to form a National organization. S. H. Hanna, of Detroit, was made chairman and W. S. Wilcombe, of Boston, secretary.

The constitution discussed provided that the organization should be known as the "American Association of Railroad Clerks," to promote fraternal and beneficial relations among its members. The visiting clerks were banqueted in the evening. The session will continue for two days.

Buried Alive.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Oct. 30.—Fred H. Leider, who took an overdose of morphine Oct. 25, and was supposed to have died was buried Oct. 27. His brother, who could not get to the funeral, came here yesterday and wanted to see his body. When the coffin was opened it was found that the supposed dead man had been in a stupor and had come to life in the casket. His face was scratched and the glass in the coffin broken.

After a Burglar.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 30.—Sheriff McElroy, of Lapierre county, Mich., arrived in Columbus Wednesday after A. Blanchard, who is wanted for burglarizing cars on the Grand Trunk railway. Blanchard and his pal, William Morris, were arrested on suspicion for selling overcoats so cheap. Their plant of about twenty overcoats was discovered in a cornfield. Blanchard has confessed.

Women's Rights in Church.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 30.—Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, of this city, is the first church here to vote on the eligibility of women as lay delegates to the general conference. The election was held last night and resulted as follows: Against the proposition, 33; for it, 18. The fifty-one votes cast represent a membership of 710.

A Miner's Carelessness.

BUCHTEL, O., Oct. 30.—Through the carelessness of a miner, who entered the barn with a lighted lamp, the large barn of the Columbus and Hocking Coal and Iron company at Murray City, with six horses and great quantities of hay and grain, were burned. Loss $5,000; fully insured.

Glass Workers Strike.

MARTIN'S FERRY, O., Oct. 30.—The glass workers at the Buckeye glass works have struck because of the failure of the company to pay them an advance on the iron moulding list for blowing certain articles and paying an increase to gathering boys on the same articles.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 30.—Philip Tucker, colored, was arrested here yesterday charged with murdering his wife and throwing her body in a ditch. He claims she was crazy and wandered away from home.

RAILROAD EXTENSION.

More Miles Added to the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago Road.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—A special meeting of the stockholders and directors of the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago Railroad company was held here yesterday for the purpose of taking action on acquiring additional property and extension of lines. It was voted to support the present management and to extend the lines of the company to the coal fields at Brazil and also to Evansville, Ind., thus forming a St. Louis connection from Louisville.

A rail connection will also be made with the Louisville and Nashville at Henderson, Ky. The company will also spend considerable money in extending the terminal facilities at Indianapolis, Louisville and Nashville. About 110 miles of road will be built.

A Quiet Wedding.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Miss Mary Butterworth, daughter of Representative Butterworth of Ohio was married yesterday afternoon to Mr. Haughwant Howe, an agent of the department of state, at the Friends meetinghouse of [illegible]. The ceremony had been set originally for to-day and preparations had been made to make it a social event. Mr. Howe, however, was taken seriously ill last Friday and rather than have a postponement of the marriage, Miss Butterworth decided to have it take place [illegible] yesterday afternoon. All formalities were dispensed with and the ceremony took place in the sick room in the presence of a few immediate relatives of the contracting parties.

Excellent Whale Catch.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Oct. 30.—Dispatches received here give the latest reports from the Arctic fleet of whaling vessels, and state that the fleet has taken [illegible] ninety-three whales, or nearly twice as many as were taken last year.

THE FLAGS OF FREEDOM

To Wave from Conspicuous Points in the Republics of the World.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The movement on foot among several patriotic societies in New York to put the flag of our own and other republics in prominent places, contemplates, besides flying the stars and stripes from the New Jersey Highlands, where it shall be the first object seen on the way to New York from the ocean, to invite the co-operation of the patriotic societies, with a special committee there, to erect a flag at the entrance to San Francisco harbor. In the same way to erect a flag at the entrance to New Orleans harbor.

To erect a liberty pole, with the flag of the Brazilian republic at the entrance to Rio Janeiro harbor, as an expression of welcome from patriotic contributors in America to Brazil in joining the family of republics.

To erect a liberty pole, with a flag of the French republic upon it, by the side of the first lighthouse seen on the French soil, entering from the west of the English channel, that everybody aboard ship passing through the English channel may see the flag of the greatest republic in Europe always waving on high, kept there by the contributions of the patriotic citizens of the republic of the United States.

To place a liberty pole and flag in the same way on the south bank of the St. Lawrence, at the point where the line of the United States strikes the river.

To have our committee then issue an address to the patriotic citizens resident in the republics of the world, calling on them to erect or re-erect liberty poles everywhere by the side of the public school house, and then on the Fourth of July next to request that every community in the republic will gather at the public school house, by the side of the liberty pole, and under the shadow of the flag of their republic, and make it a day of grand rejoicing over the fact that the great nation of Brazil has joined the family of republics, and that the empire of Japan had adopted a constitutional form of government.

The committee are particularly anxious to have the ceremonies in connection with the unfurling of the Atlantic Highlands flag as soon as possible, while the weather is pleasant, and they would therefore ask every one to send a contribution, large or small, at the earliest possible moment.

Several New York societies are taking collections to further the above objects.

Suing for a Quarter of a Million.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Guggenheimer & Untermeyer have begun eight suits in the supreme court, on behalf of English corporations and capitalists, against Dr. G. H. Wynkoop and T. N. Vail, to recover about $250,000, alleged to have been procured from them by misrepresentation. Among the plaintiffs is Sir John Pender, whose loss is placed at $50,000.

MAKING LAWS WITH A GUN.

Disgraceful Scenes in the Oklahoma Legislative Hall.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Oct. 30.—The legislative hall was thrown into an uproar yesterday over the action of Representative Terrill. The assembly had been in session all night Tuesday night until 2 a. m., when the representative demanded that Senator McCarthy, who was on the floor lobbying for the Kingfisher bill, be ejected. The speaker refused to comply with the request, when Terrill said he would then leave the hall.

The speaker ordered the door locked, but Terrill kicked it open and went out, followed by so many members that the assembly adjourned. Yesterday morning Terrill walked to his desk and, laying a revolver on it, said he would see whether the speaker and others would be allowed to brazenly disregard the rules of the house. The sergeant-at-arms after a struggle disarmed Terrill, who went out to hunt another gun. The bill was defeated.

County Treasury Robbed.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 30.—A special from Olivet, S. Dak., says: Last night a robbery was effected in the Hutchinson county treasury at this place. The burglars made a hole through the brick wall of the vault and secured entrance. The outer doors of the safe, which was in the vault, had been left open, and the inner doors were opened by blowing the lock to pieces with powder. In a small wooden drawer was $837 in cash and $2,300 in warrants, which were taken. In another safe, which the burglars failed to open, was $6,000.

Telegraphers' Strike Ended.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 30.—The telegraph strike ended last night in an easy victory for the Western Union company. Of the twenty-four operators who went out on Monday all but four were yesterday re-engaged by the company. Two of the four have secured other employment and the remaining two were offered work by the company in another city. The men re-engaged signed the old agreement of 1883, pledging themselves to quit the Brotherhood and to become members of no secret organization.

George Francis Won't Go.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—George Francis Train, who went around the world in sixty-six days, arrived in New York Tuesday night. He had left Tacoma 119 hours before in an attempt to beat his record of sixty-six days, but because he has found out that he can not connect at Hong Kong with the steamship China, he has given up the trip and will remain in New York.

Gas Trust Decision.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Judge McConnell has sustained the demurrer to the pleas of the gas trust to the information filed in the two counts by the people, on the relation of Francis B. Peabody, that the trust had no right to deal in or hold the stock in other gas companies; and thus creates monopoly of the gas business. A judgment of ouster will be issued on Friday or Saturday next.

Mafia Victims at Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 30.—Yesterday the body of an Italian was found on the river front with several gashes in his head and a knife thrust over the heart. The cause of the death was a mystery until the police obtained a clew showing that it was the work of the Mafia. The victim, it is believed, was followed here from New Orleans.

Guilty of Smuggling.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The jury in the cases of John Baker, John Hughes and Edward Baxter, who were indicted on a charge of smuggling, brought in a verdict of guilty in the United States court yesterday. Richard Hart, also indicted for the same offense, pleaded guilty. All were remanded for sentence.

Life is Misery

To thousands of people who have the taint of scrofula in their blood. The agonies caused by the dreadful running sores and other manifestations of this disease are beyond description. How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

THURSDAY, - - OCTOBER 30.

MUCH speculation is rife as to the outcome of the Foster-Hare contest for Congress and the result of the race for probate judge. Of course there is only speculation, for no one can safely foretell the result. That Mr. Foster is decidedly in the Congressional race no sensible person doubts, for there are few democrats who claim Hare's election by more than a couple hundred, an open admission of Foster's strength.

IT is observed that when Mr. Blaine speaks he comes pretty near addressing the nation. His speeches are published in all the leading papers in the land almost before his words have ceased to echo. Indeed, with the modern newspaper, the old campaigns have passed away. Every intelligent voter reads, and he is as well posted on the features of a campaign as the stump speaker. Though he doesn't actually hear them, he knows what Blaine says, what Hill offers, what McKinley and Reed say, and what Carlisle and Mills argue. He gets the words of the most distinguished statesmen of the day. The country stumper must have a great power of eloquence to add to his words if his speech amounts to much.

TRAVELING men selling goods for eastern houses received orders from the house to raise the price on all woolen, cotton and linen goods the day after the McKinley high tariff bill became a law. All over the land there is the same cry. You can't buy goods now as cheap as you could two weeks ago. McKinley and his band of high tariff robbers have done the business.—Mirror.

The STAR submitted the above to one of Marion's leading dry goods merchants to learn how much truth there was in it it. Said he: "It is all bosh. We are selling as cheap or really cheaper than ever, and we have known of no advance in prices in our purchases. There isn't an article in our store that has been raised in price by the McKinley bill, and the only goods that are advanced at all are black velvets and they have been advansing for three months because of the remarkable scarcity of them. The McKinley bill doesn't affect them. Just you say it is a mean way to injure our business by publishing such silly stuff."

Coverings for the Feet.

The foot should be kept warm and comfortable—this in all cases is the first requisite. Stockings which do not meet this demand are to be discarded. and those selected which have the proper qualities. If a worsted or a woolen stocking is more comfortable and satisfactory let it be worn; but to many people a firm, well made cotton article is by far the most satisfactory This is especially the case with people employed indoors, whose feet would be very uncomfortable if clad in wool.—Good Housekeeping.

Congress several years ago enacted a law placing an import duty of $10 per pound upon smoking opium brought into this country. Notwithstanding this heavy duty the regular importation of opium through legal channels and upon which duty was paid amounted to $1,500,-000 last year.

A clever New York journalist, Franklin Fyles, recently produced a new play called "Overlook" at Boston, and critics commend it as very entertaining, novel and dramatic. Mr. Fyles has written several plays, but "Overlook" is said to be his strongest in conception and originality

The first successful blood purifier ever offered to the public was Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Imitators have had their day, but soon abandoned the field, while the demand for this incomparable medicine increases year by year, and was never so great as at present.

We are told that a certain little girl said, "Mamma, have you heard of the man that got shot?" "No, child; how did he get shot?" "Oh!" said the precocious, "he bought 'em"

A Child Killed.

Another child killed by the use of opiates given in the form of soothing syrup. Why mothers give their children such deadly poison is surprising when they can relieve the child of its peculiar troubles by using Dr. Acker's Baby Soother. It contains no opium or morphine. The Greatest Strike.

Among the great strikes that of Dr. Miles in discovering his New Heart Cure has proven itself to be one of the most important. The demand for it has become astonishing. Already the treatment of heart disease is being revolutionized, and many unexpected cures effected. It soon relieves short breath, fluttering, pains in side, arm, shoulder, weak and hungry spells, oppression, swelling of ankles, smothering and heart dropsy. Dr. Miles' book on Heart and Nervous Diseases, free. The unequaled New Heart Cure is sold and guaranteed by Denison & Co.'s and Hoberman & Co.'s also his Restorative Nervine for headache, fits, sprees, hot flashes, nervous chills, opium habit, etc.

SCIENTIFIC SQUIBS.

Pipes for gas, water and electric cables made of paper have recently appeared at Vienna.

An Italian savant claims that injecting a current of electricity through milk delays its souring for several days.

Electricity has just been applied to the reeling, weighing and making up into balls of silk and similar woven fabrics.

The latest invention is clothing made of a fabric in which fine threads of cork are interwoven with wool or silk, which renders it impossible for the wearer to sink in water.

The high explosive carbonite has recently given very satisfactory results, and it has been proved that it is a staple compound that can be stored for a length of time without deterioration.

An Italian scientist declares that the blood of eels is poisonous when injected into the veins. An eel weighing five pounds contains enough poison to kill ten men. The blood is harmless, however, when taken into the stomach.

Celluloid artificial eyes are cheaper than those of glass and have a good appearance, but Dr. Meurer, of Lyons, states that after three or four months they are liable to cause serious irritation, probably as the result of chemical action.

HOW THEY WROTE.

Richard B. Sheridan wrote an execrable hand.

Robert Burns had an autograph worthy of royalty.

Addison wrote a beautifully clear and correct hand.

Congreve wrote a clear if somewhat schoolboyish hand.

Charles II wrote a much more pleasing hand when Prince of Wales than after his accession to the throne.

There was no indication of genius in the handwriting of Edmund Burke, which is rather effeminate looking.

Dean Swift wrote a [illegible] hand, [illegible] indication of his [illegible] character.

Voltaire wrote a small but legible hand, which seems to indicate that he must have been distinguished by method and precision of character.

The handwriting of Oliver Goldsmith, with all its beauties, is wholly lacking in decision, and seems to curiously reflect his refined but wayward temperament.

There is a curious family likeness between the handwriting of Wordsworth, Southey and Coleridge, which tempts one to think that they copied one another.

There is a signature of the first earl of Shaftesbury, the author of the "Characteristics," in the British museum, which is eloquent of the infirmities from which he was suffering.

Dr. Johnson wrote a very crabbed hand, but not [illegible] the score of [illegible], for nearly every letter was well formed, and one can believe that he had the horror of "corrections" before his mind.

The first railway company that has yet been organized by [illegible] is soon to construct [illegible] miles [illegible] from T[illegible] to [illegible]. Several [illegible] have joined the board of directors.

The orders for passenger coaches, freight cars and locomotives this year are unprecedented. The car works of [illegible] America and England have all and more than they can do. Many of the large shops are working extra forces on extra time.

The production of steel rails throughout the United States during the first half of [illegible] is estimated at [illegible] tons. The probable new mileage may be expected to call for about 600,000 tons more of steel rails in 1890 than were required in 1889.

Railway construction is proceeding apace in Mexico. The Mexican Financial Review estimates that during the nine months ending June 30, 1890, upward of [illegible] kilometers of rails were laid down. It is expected that even greater progress will mark the next year.

The car shops which it is proposed to build near Bradford, Pa., will, it is said, equal in importance the Pullman works at Chicago. The plans for the buildings have been prepared. The main building will be 3,100 feet long by 100 feet wide. The company has a capital of $5,000,000.

The fastest freight train in the south, perhaps in the United States, is run by the Louisville, New Orleans and Texas railroad between Memphis and New Orleans. The distance between the two points is 455 miles, and the run is made in thirty hours and forty-nine minutes.

Large, powerful and fast locomotives are being built for $7,500 to $8,000, and thirty ton well built box cars for $[illegible] each or less. In fact, new work is now furnished so cheaply that it hardly pays to rebuild an engine that has run ten or a dozen years, or a car which is much out of shape.

The statement that the erasure of the words "not negotiable" from the uniform bill of lading has made it negotiable is an error. An interstate bill of lading is not negotiable by law, and there is no word or set of words whose addition or omission will change the legal status of the paper.

The United States leads in railroad mileage, with 251,282 kilometers, while Germany is a poor second, with only 40,826. France is third, with 35,264, and Great Britain follows with 31,897. Russia has 29,410; Austria, 25,731; British India, 23,859; Canada, 20,587; Italy, 12,351; Spain, 9,090, from where the other countries gradually decline to Persia with 18 and Malta with 11 kilometers.

DAUGHTERS OF EVE.

Mrs. "Stonewall" Jackson is a great sufferer from neuralgia.

Gertrude Atherton, the novelist, received $10,000 by her mother-in-law's will, probated recently in San Francisco.

Mrs. Fenwick Miller has been admitted as a fellow of the Institute of Journalists, a very select press club in London.

Mrs. Mary B. Willard, sister-in-law of Miss Francis Willard, has established a home school for girls in Berlin, Germany.

Mrs. Emma Cooper, of Joliet, Ills., keeper of a notion store, through the death of her grandparents in England, becomes heir to $9,000,000.

Miss Janet Jennings, one of the best of the Washington press correspondents, is collecting fishery statistics for the census bureau of the government.

Dr. Grace Davenport, one of the five woman physicians of Texas, was recently appointed first assistant of the insane asylum at Terrell, in that state.

Mrs. Nancy Carter, of Barre, Mass., who died recently at the age of 96 years, is said to have been out of her house but seldom for twenty years, and to never have seen a railroad train.

Mary W. Whitney, who succeeded Maria Mitchell as professor of astronomy at Vassar college, advocates the study of science for girls, with the express object of disciplining their emotional natures.

Mrs. Emily Pfeiffer, the English writer who died recently, gave all of her private fortune, with the consent and approbation of her husband, to various educational and charitable establishments for women.

Oarsmen at Harvard.

I noticed the other day in the papers an item about Harvard college which, if not an error, is a striking indication of the growth and magnitude of the athletic spirit there. It was to the effect that eighty members of the freshman class are candidates for their class crew. What a change is this from a period even so late as fifteen or twenty years ago, when (as I [illegible] understand from the graduates of about that period) a dozen men would be about the number of freshmen who had this commendable ambition. Of course the classes have grown since then, but in nothing like a similar proportion. I, for one, am not alarmed by the athletic tendencies of the modern student. I have seen so many intellectual men hampered all their lives by want of vigor, and so many commonplace men succeed by dint of nervous energy and nervous composure, so to say, that I don't care how much time the boys spend in cultivating their muscles and their physique.—Boston Post.

No Change.

W. W. Welling, stamp clerk at the postoffice, is very popular with the public, and his return to duty after a few weeks' absence recently was hailed with satisfaction by many. Mr. Welling has an impediment in his speech. Shortly after his return a well known business man came to the window for some stamps. Mr. Welling tore off a sheet and threw out the change in his usual brisk manner.

"Well, I see your right hand hasn't forgotten its cunning," remarked the patron.

"No," responded the clerk, without changing his expression, "b-b-but my t-t-t-tongue still c-c-c-cleaves to the r-r-roof of my m-m-mouth."—Indianapolis Journal.

The Anglo-French postal convention signed in Paris on Sept. 24, 1856, which expired on the 30th ultimo, has been prolonged until Dec. 31 of this year by exchange of notes between the two governments.

Scrofula

Is the most ancient and most general of all diseases. Scarcely a family is entirely free from it, while thousands everywhere are its suffering slaves. Hood's Sarsaparilla has had remarkable success in curing every form of scrofula. The most severe and painful running sores, swellings in the neck or goitre, humor in the eyes, causing partial or total blindness, yield to the powerful effects of this medicine. It thoroughly removes every impurity from the blood.

"My little daughter's life was saved, as we believe, by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before she was six months old she had [illegible] scrofula sores. One physician advised the amputation of one of her fingers, which we refused to do. When we began giving her Hood's Sarsaparilla, a [illegible] improvement was immediately noticed [illegible] her recovery was complete [illegible] being seven years old, strong and healthy." B. C. MR. AND MRS. BOWSER.

BY MRS. BOWSER.

Instead of going down town after breakfast the other morning Mr. Bowser slipped [illegible] and when he came down again he had on his old clothes. Some changes had been made in the house by which we had gained a new bedroom, and it at once occurred to me that Mr. Bowser and his old clothes and that bedroom were in some way connected.

"Why, you are not going to the office this morning?" I queried.

"No, madam."

"You are not going to make garden?"

"Hardly. I propose to finish up that bedroom."

"How?"

"Well, I shall paper the walls, to begin with."

"Mr. Bowser, I wish you wouldn't. I telephoned for a paper hanger yesterday, and he will be here to-morrow."

"And I stopped last evening and told him not to come up. I propose to have that job done in style."

"But you can't hang paper."

"Oh, I can't? Prepare yourself for a surprise party. Mrs. Bowser, I don't propose to have no wild eyed wall paper artist around here for ten days to do what I can accomplish in one."

"Mr. Bowser, I solemnly warn you not to attempt it. You will only make a failure of it and then blame me."

"There will be neither failure nor blame about it. I'll show you the paper."

He had it hidden in the barn. When he brought it in and displayed it I felt like crying. It was dark, cheap paper, of a pattern several years old, and I was prepared for his announcement that it was a job lot which he had secured at five cents a roll.

"Mr. Bowser, that room ought to have gilt paper."

"Had I rushed off as you do, Mrs. Bowser, I should have got gilt. Do you know what the most eminent chemists of the day declare? They say that gilt paper in a bedroom shortens life by many years."

"And this stuff will probably prolong it?"

"Very likely."

"Well, it ought to! Any one who would select such paper ought to live 500 years and be ashamed of himself every day!"

An hour later there was a crash up stairs which awoke the baby, frightened the cat into falling off the window sill, and caused the cook to fly into the sitting room and call out that a "cancione" had struck the house and brought down every chimney. I hurried up stairs to Mr. Bowser. He sat in a chair trying to smile and look unconcerned, but one of the steps of the ladder was gone and I knew that he had come down like a load of stone.

"Did you call?" I asked.

"Me! Oh, no. I am studying on an idea."

There was paste on his hair and pieces of wall paper sticking to his back, but I withdrew without further remark. When he came down at noon I was in hopes he had abandoned the work. It was evident he had a lame back, and he dragged one leg as he walked, and I thought it a fitting opportunity to say:

"I wouldn't bother with that room any more if I were you. I presume you are wanted at the office."

Just before supper he came down and telephoned for two more rolls of paper and forty feet more of border; but he looked so pale faced and stoop shouldered and done out that I hadn't the heart to say anything about the room. He fell asleep in his chair while reading the paper, and every few moments uttered a groan or sigh. He was paste and paper from head to heel and back again, and could hardly get up stairs from the lameness in his legs and back. Next morning, as he seemed undecided whether to go to the office or up stairs, I asked if I shouldn't telephone for the paper hanger. That decided him and he replied:

"I wouldn't be as jealous minded as you are, Mrs. Bowser, for all the money in the world. You are shaking in your shoes for fear that I will do a really nice bit of work."

It was 4 o'clock in the afternoon before he would allow me to enter the room, and then he announced its completion.

"Just give me a fair and honest opinion of it, without reference to relationship," he said, as he stood in the center of the room and looked around.

If he had been armed with a knife to cut my throat I should have been compelled to laugh. Seven of the strips were wrong end up. Four or five of them were on crooked. He had lapped the paper on to the base and window casings and his border was up and down like the waves of the sea.

"Have you escaped from Kalamazoo?" he demanded, as I laughed until I had to sit down on the floor.

"Mr. Bowser, I have a request to make of you—perhaps a dying request. Let me bring in some of the neighbors to see this."

"Certainly, and if they don't say it is one of the neatest jobs they ever saw I'll give in."

I sent cook out and got three of the nearest ladies, and when they entered the menagerie Mr. Bowser retired to dress himself. He wouldn't come out until they had departed, but he must have heard all that was said. At supper time he came down and quietly remarked:

"I suppose you want the custody of the child, Mrs. Bowser?"

"What do you mean?"

"Why, after encouraging me to spend two days of my time in papering that room, that you might criticise my work, it will be best that we separate. During the evening you had better make out a list of the things you want to reserve."

Next day the paperhanger came up and put on other paper. Mr. Bowser bought a pint of liniment and four porous plasters, and there is no happier household in Detroit than that of Bowser.—Detroit Free Press.

There has never been such a peculiar season as this in the Arctic, only one whale being killed by the natives of either the west or east coasts. The winter being so mild, the only heavy ice in the ocean was from Icy Cape, and this in no way has impeded the navigation.

A grocer of Keene, N. H., sold powder by lamplight twenty years, and some people think that the explosion which killed him the other night was the naturalest kind of death he could have had.

Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills

A Duty to Yourself.

It is surprising that people will use a common, ordinary pill when they can secure a valuable English one for the same money. Dr. Acker's English pills are a positive cure for sick-headache and all liver troubles. They are small, sweet, easily taken, and do not grip. Sold by H. C. Hoberman & Co. and W. B. Foye.

Killed in a Shooting Gallery.

MOBERLY, Mo., Oct. 30.—Charles Richie, of St. Louis, a brakeman, was accidentally shot and killed in a shooting gallery by a pistol in the hands of another man who disappeared and is not known.

As a family medicine, Ayer's Pills excel all others. They are suited to every age and, being sugar-coated, are easy to take. Though searching and thorough in effect, they are mild and pleasant in action, and their use is attended with no injurious results.

Sick Headache

IS a complaint from which many suffer and few are entirely free. Its cause is indigestion and a sluggish liver, the cure for which is readily found in the use of Ayer's Pills.

"I have found that for sick headache, caused by a disordered condition of the stomach, Ayer's Pills are the most reliable remedy."—Samuel C. Bradburn, Worthington, Mass.

"After the use of Ayer's Pills for many years, in my practice and family, I am justified in saying that they are an excellent cathartic and liver medicine—sustaining all the claims made for them."—W. A. Westfall, M. D., V. P. Austin & N. W. Railway Co., Burnet, Texas.

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered stomach and liver. I suffered for over three years from headache, indigestion, and constipation. I had no appetite and was weak and nervous most of the time. By using three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured."—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kansas.

"I was troubled for years with indigestion, constipation, and headache. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, used in small daily doses, restored me to health. They are prompt and effective."—W. H. Strout, Meadville, Pa.

A NOTABLE WEDDING.

John A. Schroeter Leads Miss Katharine Huber to the Marriage Altar.

St Mary's church was the scene of a very brilliant wedding at 8 o'clock this morning, the occasion being the marriage of Mr. John A. Schroeter to Miss Katharine C. Huber, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Huber. The contracting parties are so well and favorably known that they scarcely need any reference. Mr. Schroeter, formerly of Delaware, is now holding a responsible position here that proves his business worth equal to his admirable social qualities, and Miss Huber is a much admired and highly accomplished young lady, one of Marion's most estimable daughters. The church was very handsomely arranged for the occasion, profusely decorated with plants and flowers in tasteful array, and the ushers, Messrs. Frank A. Huber, John M. Cleary and J. F. Prendergast very gracefully seated the large audience that was present. All was in readiness for the ceremony at 8 o'clock, when Rev. Father Burns appeared to conduct the beautiful and impressive Nuptial Mass, assisted by his incomparable choir, whose music added a finish to the ceremony that was perfect.

The bridal party arrived, preceded by Ushers Huber and Prendergast. Following them were the pretty little maids, Misses Lignora Edmundson and Kittie Kirchner, daintily dressed in pink and Nile green China silk and carrying white and pink chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid, Miss Nona Fahey, and Mr. Charles Schroeter, were next. Miss Fahey was handsomely attired in a cream India silk, decollete, with lace trimmings, wearing a large white hat and carrying pink roses. The bridal couple followed. Miss Huber was very stately and the cynosure of all eyes in her elegant costume of heavy, white corded silk, entraine, with garniture of lace, tulle veil, orange blossoms and diamond ornaments, the latter the gift of the groom. She carried a boquet of bride roses. The groom wore the conventional black.

Before the altar the beautiful ceremony was performed. At its conclusion the wedding party took carriages for the home of Mr. and Mrs. Huber, where the wedding breakfast was served. About thirty relatives and very intimate friends were present to enjoy the pleasures of this feature, and it was truly an occasion of much enjoyment. Indeed it was a double celebration, for Mr. and Mrs. Schroeter had arranged their marriage to occur on the twenty-fifth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Huber's wedding, making a very notable celebration of that event.

At noon Mr. and Mrs. Schroeter left for Niagara Falls and thence to New York and other Eastern cities, on a wedding tour of two weeks or more. On their return they will be at home to their friends after November 21, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Huber, with whom they expect to make their future home.

The presents bestowed upon the newly married couple were both numerous and costly, showing the high esteem in which their friends regard them. These came with hearty congratulations and the good wishes that are extended for their future, which is full of promise for them. In these good wishes the STAR desires to join.

Those present from abroad were Joseph Schroeter, Sr., father of the groom, Joseph W. Schroeter, Jr., Charles Schroeter, Frank A. Schroeter, Miss Minnie Schroeter and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Artz, all of Delaware, and Miss Huber, of Lawrenceburg, Ind.

Over 400 Garments AT Sacrifice Prices

How do we get them? Well, we will tell you. First, they are brand new—this season's stock. They were bought at a bargain price at the factory—away down—and they stand us at prices that we can sell them at less than local retail dealers can get them at wholesale, and, having room in our establishment to sell them, we propose to sell them off to the people's advantage rather than dispose of the lot to a dealer. An especial fine line of

CHILDREN'S CLOAKS AND WRAPS

For those 6 to 12 years of age.

Ladies' Wraps in All Popular Styles.

It would take too long to quote you prices. The figures are half price, and you must see the goods to appreciate the bargains we offer. We are open every day and evening. Don't miss these matchless bargains. Come and see and compare our goods and prices with other dealers. We invite close inspection all around. It is the opportunity of the season.

WHAT I CARRY!

I CARRY A line of Fall and Winter Overcoats which is the acme of perfection, looked at from any point of view you will. What I have not got isn't worth looking for—in quantity, hundreds; in quality, everything that's at all reliable; in styles, the latest only; in linings, the good, old-fashioned farmers' satin, the serviceable serge, the silk and satin lined throughout; foreign fabrics and domestic fabrics—the best of each. I have the long roll, the English box, the London top and coats of genuine American cut, which take no back seat in style. I run $2 to $25 is a long distance in price, and all along the line I'll show you genuine values and stylish garments.

I CARRY A line of Men's Suits, in which no one can fail to be suited. It's an assortment from which I will guarantee to please both the head and the pocketbook. I ask your attention to to the medium-priced line of suits that I am selling at $8, $10 and $12. Don't go by price. 'Twill be a revelation to many when they see the amount of genuine style and good material crowded into one of my medium-priced suits.

I CARRY The largest and finest stock of Boys' and Children's Clothing I have ever offered. It would take a good sized store by itself to hold the enormous quantity I have collected for you to choose from. The designs are beautiful; choice novelties by the score, or, if you are looking for plain, serviceable goods at a low price, I can suit you. I say this with confidence, for the stock contains everything at every price.

I CARRY A mammoth stock of Hats, in which you will find any makers' block that's your favorite, at considerable less than hatters' prices. Latest styles of Dunlap, Millar and Youman, Prices, from 45c to $4.

I CARRY A Gents' Furnishing Department, complete in every detail and without a rival in the state. I devote a very large space to this department, carry an immense stock and make prices which I know (from actual comparison) are not and can not be met. Underwear, Neckwear, Hosiery are here in an endless variety. Call and be convinced.

—It is learned by the Mt. Gilead Register, that Rev. S. Hunt, one of the veterans of the Methodist ministry, and at one time well-known in the eastern part of this county, died at Mt. Gilead Monday of this week, and was buried at Delaware. Rev. Hunt was residing with his daughter, Mrs. W. H. Briggs, at the time of his death. He was [illegible] years of age.

—About twenty guests responded to the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Grills Tuesday evening, and spent an enjoyable evening at their home. The occasion was a surprise arranged in honor of the birthday anniversary of Miss Maud Hornby. The evening was spent in social pleasantries and games, and a splendid luncheon was one of the enjoyable features. Miss Hornby was the recipient of some elegant and useful presents.

—Washington Irving's ever delightful story of Rip Van Winkle was revived in the memory of a large audience at Music Hall Wednesday evening by the performance of [illegible] Rip Van Winkle Co. Mr. E. M. Crane made a good Rip, and the other characters worthy of especial mention were [illegible] Hendrick and Meenie, played by the little Misses Jennie and [illegible] these two made a hit in their acting and [illegible]. The scenery was also [illegible], and the orchestra a treat.

The Front Row Disappointed.

[Lima Daily Republican.]

A good-sized audience assembled last night to see what the Fay Foster English Gaiety company could do in the way of entertainment. The performance opened with a yachting scene, followed by the olio of specialties, containing a number of artists whose names are not unknown to fame. Prominent in this work was the exhibition of barrel and ball juggling by Vernado, the Mexican. He is, in the vernacular of the modern, "out of sight." The afterpiece, Her Minnie, is a good conception. It was prettily costumed, and the impersonation and character work of Tommy Dayton, as the smaller of the thieves, was most laughable and truly interesting. Mr. Dayton arranged the burlesque of the famous opera. The frequenters of the front row were disappointed in the matter of limb display, there being nothing in the entire performance that would not meet the approval of the most fastidious.

[Findlay Republican.]

The Fay Foster Vaudeville Co. gave an entertainment to a full house at Davis last evening. The program was made up of special acts, singing and dancing, which ranked as fair as the average performance of this kind. While there was a notable absence of ladies in the audience the entertainment was one that they could well have attended, and many of the specialties would have been enjoyed by them. The failure of the orchestra to readily catch the cue of the stage manager proved a little ridiculous at times, but all in all the entertainment gave satisfaction.

You have not much money, have you? And it takes hard work to make it, don't it? You will need some new winter clothing, won't you? And you wish to make your money go as far as possible, don't you? Then go right to Kleinmaier Bros', the strictly one-price clothiers, who sell good goods and their low prices can be depended on.

Both boys and men will find the style they are after in either an overcoat or suit at a lower price than they can buy an equal quality in any other store. If you want cheap goods, they have them as cheap or cheaper than any in town, or if you want fine tailor made suits and overcoats that will fit you like a glove and made in the very latest style, no store will do so well for you as Kleinmaiers'. It

An Interesting Case.

One of the most interesting cases that has come before the common pleas court was brought to a close this morning. It was that of Princess O. Gray against L. P. Lewis, executor of the estate of Hannah Farmer, deceased. As has been stated before the plaintiff had received a judgment of $1105 at a previous term of court, which was reversed and remanded for trial. The case has been on several days, and the jury returned a judgment for plaintiff of $1205. It is given out that the jury stood ten in favor of doubling the amount of the first judgment and that the one rendered was a compromise. It was nevertheless quite a victory for plaintiff as the case has been before four different juries.

In a Sad Predicament.

A big, strapping fellow, with a youthful countenance and considerable timidity, entered the probate judge's office Wednesday and asked for a license to marry a woman eight or nine years his senior, he couldn't tell exactly; nor did he have any assurance in regard to her correct name. A few interrogatives by Judge Criswell discovered the fact that the aforesaid woman had a husband from whom she had never been divorced. When told that he could not get a license under the circumstances the fellow went out to look for a lawyer to get the woman a divorce, remarking that he would be heard from later.
